Action of the Government [illegible]

Special Dispatch to The New-York Times.

Washington, Friday, June 10.

A correspondence has been going on for some months with the British Government relative to the manner in which the United States were carrying out the provisions of the Ashburton Treaty touching the suppression of the Slave-trade. Regarded through the treaty journals rather as observed according to its spirit, or what proper steps should be taken for the strengthening. It [illegible] is believed that the State Department is in the receipt of a note from Lord Lyons [illegible] a communication from Admiral Chas., commanding the British squadron on the coast of Africa, in which that officer complains of the want of vessels in the American squadron sufficiently large to carry out the treaty stipulations. Admiral Chas. [illegible] to carry out the treaty stipulations. President Buchanan has instructed the Government to answer the complaints which he regards as well founded, by entering to the coast of Africa and the Gulf of Mexico all the new gun-boats now approaching completion at the several navy-yards. These little steamers are peculiarly adapted for the service, and will be put in commission as soon as possible.

Lord and Lady Napier are now in London. His probably wishes that the impression in London is that Germany will soon be involved in the war, and with Germany, all Europe. The German Government are opposed to neutrality, but the excitement among the people is so wild that they cannot be checked. Attorney will march to the Rhine, he states, at an early day. This necessarily involves England in the fight.

It is not true that Lord Malmesbury stated that the New-York Government had disapproved of the action of Mr Wheeler Cass Consul in Nicaragua. G.

Fabulous Accounts from the Pike's Peak Mines.

Lancaster, Friday, June 10.

The Express coaches have arrived, with advices from Denver City to the 1st inst. They contain extraordinary reports, calculated to renew the gold fever with more virulence than ever. Rich nuggets had been discovered at the north fork of Vasquez Creek, principally coarse gold and decomposed quartz. Great excitement prevailed all through the country, and the statements of the yield of Gregory's and other Mining Companies were almost fabulous. A company from Indiana was making from one hundred and fifty to five hundred dollars a day. These are other accounts of the same character, and varying in the least. Many of the late arrivals seemed to have been written under the prevailing excitement, and are in strong contrast to previous gloomy reports. The dust taken out by the Gregory Mining Company alone is estimated at $30,000. Denver City was almost depopulated by the people leaving for the mountains. Provisions continued scarce. Twenty thousand dollars had been ordered for Atchison. Subsequent arrivals will determine how far the truth of the first reports [illegible] of the twenty-five per cent received differ in fact. Rich specimens of gold were received by this arrival. The community are intensely excited by the intelligence.

FROM THE PACIFIC COAST.

By The Overland Mail.

Proceedings against a San Francisco Newspaper for publishing Mrs. Sickles' Confession—Intelligence from Washington Territory, Oregon and British Columbia.

From Our Own Correspondent.

San Francisco, Monday, May 16, 1859.

The excitement in town during the last two or three days has grown out of a case in which your old Washington correspondent, Mr. J. W. Gunnison—late editor of the Evening Bulletin in this city—is involved. Mr. G. does not seem to have forgotten his well-known habit of plunging into and exposing the knaveries and machinations of public men wherever and whenever the occasion arises. In his new position as manager of by far the most influential journal upon the Pacific coast, and one which has made much of its power by bold denunciation of public corruptions and private wickedness—he is not likely to lead a particularly quiet life here. Within the last fortnight he has been after Mr. T. P. Tuska, City Attorney of San Francisco, with (a particularly sharp stick, securing bills of sacrificing the interests of the city in certain suits which he permitted to go by default; and in which the city had a valid defence. Mr. Tuska was unable to meet the charges successfully; nor could he attempt the common dodge of attributing the assaults to personal malice or partisan feeling; for it was well known on one hand that the Editor's relations with him were most friendly, and, on the other, that his party sympathies are all with the Republicans, among whom Mr. Tuska has been a shining light. The City Attorney writhed and squirmed under the lash, and finally addressed a letter to the Board of Supervisors in reply to the charges against him. This letter the Bulletin dissected mercilessly—exposing its mendacious concealments of important facts, and its failure to meet the specifications—and pinning its original charges more thoroughly than ever upon the back of the City Attorney, who got very much excited in consequence, but made no demonstrations beyond undignified public remonstrances of the Editor, at restaurants and on the street.

On Friday last, however, a complaint was made before a Police Justice against Mr. Gunnison and his partner, Mr. Crandall, upon the charge of misdemeanor, in issuing an "obscene publication"—to wit, the confession of Mrs. Sickles, offered in evidence, at Washington, upon the trial of her husband! The Bulletin published it, in its report of the Sickles trial, without comment, just as they found it in the New-York papers. Everybody saw, at once, that the prosecution was malicious. The accused parties appeared at once, declined to give bail, demanded an investigation immediately, and waived a jury trial. It turned out that the complainant was one Andrew B. Parks, known among his companions as "finety." The Alta Californian, the Times, and the French papers of this City, denounced the prosecution earnestly as malicious, and evidently accept as true the suspicions which point to Tuska as its instigator; while, on the other hand, no single Press here, which lays the least claim to respectability—much as they all hate the Bulletin from envy of its prosperity—has dared to brave public sentiment so far as to take the opposite ground.

It is known that at least one magistrate refused to issue a warrant against the parties, upon the ground that it was impossible to make good a charge based upon the publication complained of; and the Justice who did issue the warrant at last, declares that he refused until he was threatened himself with prosecution by the instigators of this scheme. During the trial the defence, determining to examine Parks himself as a witness, sent a subpœna after him. He started to obey it, but after walking part of the distance stopped, and failed to obey the subpœna at all. These various facts have had the effect of securing to the Bulletin the active sympathy of the San Francisco public, which appreciates its services to the community. The defendants proved, upon the trial, that neither of them had any personal agency in the publication, even if the document itself could be called "obscene;" Crandall being absent from the city at the time, and Gunnison having left entirely to one of his assistants the duty of making up the report of the Sickles' trial, and not seeing it at all until after the paper was issued. Strange to say, the prosecuting counsel maintained that the law presumed malice in the publication, and that even in a criminal prosecution, positive proof that the defendants knew nothing of the character of the confession could not relieve them of responsibility, as they were the "publishers of the paper." This monstrous doctrine, of course, can never be sustained. The magistrate before whom the case was tried has not yet rendered any decision.

The Alta Californian—the Bulletin's only formidable rival—thus characterized the prosecution:

"The case, after a short examination, was closed and taken under advisement by Justice Hudson until Monday. From the character of the prosecution and the motives of the parties in the back ground who induced the prosecution, we attach no importance to the suit. It was gotten up out of spite as a sort of revenge for the ventilation given by the Bulletin to certain reprehensible transactions upon the part of certain parties."

There is almost nothing else of merely local interest to report. It is now said settled that the fire which destroyed Col. Stevenson's house near Red Bluff, (in which several persons lost their lives, as referred to in my last,) was set up by an Indian boy in the employ of the family. Immediately after the fire he left on one of Stevenson's best horses. He was pursued and captured some 15 miles on the road to Shasta. He has made various statements, one of which is that he assisted in setting fire to the place under the orders and in fear of five other Indians, who threatened to kill him if he did not assist them. But the story does not receive credit. It is thought that he is the author and perpetrator of the whole affair. He is only 10 or 12 years old, but a remarkably smart boy. He is a Pitt River Indian, and was on his way to join his tribe when captured.

A petition has been circulated, asking aid of the Governor, for the purpose of expelling the Indians from Tehama County, which received the signature of every citizen to whom it was presented. The people have arrived at the fixed conviction that it is absolutely necessary, for their protection, to drive the Indians entirely out of the County.

On the night of the 12th another house, near Stevenson's, and belonging to Mr. Sam Hoskins, was also burned by the Indians. A Mr. Marshall, who was sleeping in the house, and who is an old mountaineer, says positively that he heard Indians immediately before the house was fired. The parties who remained at the ruins till morning discovered bare feet and moccasin tracks in the adjacent fields. These connected facts seem to indicate a terrible conspiracy among the savages to annoy and drive away the whites.

In my letter of the 10th, I alluded to the murder of one McCarron at Jacksonville, by Asst. Gaoler. The latter has been committed for trial on the charge of murder. There is great excitement in Jacksonville, and no probability that the murderer will be hung. Causes had the pursuit of the assassination have been [illegible]

Jesse Taylor, from Bozeman's, Cass County, Ill., was instantly killed on the 10th, by the caving of a bank, at Coon Hollow.

Thomas Kennedy, a native of Waterford County, Ireland, was killed on Mosher's Flat, Nevada County, on 7th May. The tunnel in the claims where he was at work, near the Nevada Dammers, had become choked up, and he went in to clear it out. He had scarcely commenced his work when the earth, with which the tunnel was choked, gave way, and the water rushed out with such force as to carry him out of the tunnel, landing him in a ditch some distance below, and killing him instantly.

A young man named McCreary, committed suicide recently, at his cabin on Wolf Gulch, Siskiyou County, by shooting himself with a gun. He was supposed to be insane.

D. D. Gunnison and H. Seymour have been arrested and held to bail to answer the charge of misdemeanor in selling tickets in a Georgia lottery.

A correspondent at Downieville, under date on the Salmon River says: "I believe that all the miners who have their claims open are making good wages. At Eddye's Gulch, one mile above this place, is paying well. I do not know of a claim that does not pay good wages—from $6 to $10 per day to the man. White's Gulch, four miles above, is paying from $6 to $8 to the man. The claims on the river generally pay well, and will not be worked out for ten years. There are a great many Chinamen coming on to the river—plenty of room for them, though we would rather have white men."

Captain Truesen, well known to travellers on this coast as master of various steamers, was seriously injured, recently, by a thrust from a "pike pole." In the melee of a mutiny aboard Williamet. The iron penetrated to his left kidney. The circumstances, as in the case of several former strikes, indicate a conspiracy, and it is feared a fatal result. Several men have been committed to jail. It seems to be the general opinion that Winans made an unprovoked assault.

We have dates from Portland, Oregon, to the 10th inst. The Dalles Journal contains an order of General Harney, respecting the Salt Lake expedition. THE STATE EDITORIAL CONVENTION.

A Congregation of Newspaper People—Peculiarities of the Press of the Interior—Personalities of the Craft—Effects of the late Freeze—Bits of Gossip from the Capitol, &c.; &c.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

Albany, Friday, June 10, 1859.

This being one of the even days, we are enjoying the luxury of a rain. Yesterday was a magnificent day, however; clear, not hot, not cold, from daylight to midnight; as pretty a specimen of a June day as ever dawned. It will receive a fortunate notice [illegible] for it was the day for the Annual Convention of the Editorial and Typographical Association of the State at Syracuse. This Association, which has existed as a Western New-York affair during six years, was last year converted into a State concern. All portions of the State were represented yesterday at Syracuse, though, as a matter of course, the central and western parts most largely. The rail city had put itself into the most hospitable attitude; all the hotels were open to members, and when they came to pay their bills, the smiling landlords assured them that the Press of Syracuse had squared all accounts, and there was no evasion in town where they could spend their money.

Moreover, the city never was show to more advantage than just now. The streets, clean as New-York will be in the millenium, when under the genial operation of the temperately hot Health Bill, the clean maples, beeches clothed in their emerald glory, have cast of spade-worms and [illegible] casting a deep shade upon the sidewalks, the light breeze streaming the same tone through their boughs that the country trees give out; albeit, this is a busy city, and the bells and steam-whistles daily ring in and shriek out thirteen arrivals and as many departures of the trains, which seldom stop without scattering a new crowd among the crowds of the city, nor depart without taking some who had penned a while on business.

The delegates were quartered in three squads, at the Syracuse House, the Globe, and the Voorhies, all quiet, cleanly, well-kept houses; and any one who has ever been up to this town (though as famous for its Conventions as for its salt works) on the occasion of a political Convention, is amazed to find how roomy, cosy and still they all are now, that were so crowded, squeezed, noisy then—the parlors full of cots, beds and chairs doing backstreet duty, with an uneasy sleeper upon everything that will hold one. The head-quarters of the Editorial Convention were at No. 8 of the Syracuse House, where some forty or fifty men who exercise the editorial function registered their names, and then in double file marched over to famous "Convention Hall."

At 12 o'clock, Mr. Thos. F. Tuttle, President, (of the Syracuse Journal,) rapped to order, and in a very brief speech, welcomed strangers. Mr. James T. Norris, of the Livingston Republican, read the minutes of the last meeting. Committees were appointed to present new business and dispose of some already on hand, and then an adjournment for dinner. At 2½ P. M., there was a reassembling, the number a good deal swollen upon that of the morning. Colonel Tassell, of the Oswego Times, from the Business Committee, reported a series of resolutions, which, after a spirited debate upon each of them, were adopted. They mostly related to the rates of advertising, increasing the rates of protracted ads, insisting upon prepayment at the highest rates and no solicitation therefor from quack doctors and itinerant agents, discouraging the publication of stories from sensation papers as if they were original matter, urging abstinence from personalities, and a more distinguished courtesy between editors, and setting their faces against "rats" in the profession, by which outside people should understand that they mean those who do job printing or newspaper advertising below the fixed rates, thus cheating themselves out of their profits, and finishing down prices below what is reasonable or fairly remunerative. These resolutions are of vital importance to the parties concerned. It is the custom to print them in circulars, and post them in all their offices; anybody charges as much above the established tariff as his circulation will justify, but whoever goes below it is a "rat," and despicable in the eyes of his fellows. Upon the largest share of the advertising, of course, is local, still a valuable part comes from the sea-board cities. To gather these up and collect the pay for them is generally done through advertising firms in New-York. But it is a risky business, and unless conducted by parties of established reputation and character, results in a great many losses. This subject occupied a good deal of attention yesterday in Convention, and, after a free ventilation of it, resulted in recommending S. M. Pettengill & Co., of New-York, as their quasi agents, who are to receive, as heretofore, 25 per cent. commissions on the advertisements furnished, and assume all risks. Without admitting that there were not other reliable firms, they unanimously agreed that, for the present, this was their best arrangement, being sure then that they would never be chiseled out of their pay for keeping our City advertisements going for a year, and that their drafts would always be promptly honored. The Committee on Organization reported Buffalo as the next place of meeting, and Mr. A. M. Clapp, of the Buffalo Express, as the next President. These recommendations were adopted by acclamation. The Vice-Presidents were chosen, one from each Judicial District—Mr. Alexander Mann, of the Times, representing the New-York City District. His predecessor, whose office just expires, is Mr. Councilman Ormsbee, of the Tribune.

Of the talking men in the Convention, most notable for a face familiar over all the State, and his genial, A No. 1 soul, was Mr. Alonzo M. Clapp, whose paper (the Buffalo Express) is probably the most profitable newspaper establishment in Western New-York. He wrote the first line ever set up for its columns some dozen years ago, and has not laid up from writing right on—not even to go to Europe this Spring, as was going the rounds of the "Personal" swaille ago. He was the Republican candidate for Secretary of State in 1857; his motto, I should judge from his paper, must be "Fight or Spills"—always doing the former in a gentlemanly way, and never the latter except in the active transitive sense.

Colonel Tassell, of the Oswego Times, all men know who go to Republican Conventions. He is one of the Connecticut Boundary Commissioners, who looked up the ancient landmarks and put the line between the Wooden Nutmeg State and ours into such position that it only needed the assent of the crotchety Yankees to settle a dispute that began before any of us were born. Connecticut has now a new Commission;—that "Barnis is willin'!" and, unless there are three good Republicans in our State who must be provided with places, the matter might now easily be settled without giving a fat slice of Westchester and Dutchess away.

Mr. D. D. Wards is editor of the new daily Republican Advocate, of Batavia, and one of the late Vice-Presidents. His experiment of a daily for Batavia is but six weeks old, but promising.

Mr. J. H. Selkreg, Esq., of the Ithaca Journal, is a specimen of the genuine Western editor—hard-headed, solemn in his outer man, his wit dry as timber, and on the least promising questions putting the house into a roar.

Henry Stowell, of the American Revolt, hails from Seneca Falls, the place which gave birth to Mrs. Stanton and the steam fire-engines which are taking down all others. Of said fire-engines worked by steam, two are now in Boston, four in Chicago, and one was a short time since showing what it could do to the Brooklyn people. Mr. Stowell is probably one of the youngest of the members of the Convention.

Mr. A. T. Hackstaff, of the Niagara City Herald, looks like a hard-working Democrat, as he is. I believe he was once connected with the Sun that "shines for all" who pay one cent a sheet in your City.

Mr. D. D. T. Moore was President of the Association some three or four years since—a jolly, wide-awake man, and about twenty years younger than I and supposed after reading his Rural New-Yorker for half-a-dozen years. Mr. Tuttle, (the President,) started as the devil of the Journal, of which not many years after he became the proprietor. He is now the local man of the same establishment, of which his brother is the business manager, and its "editor," Mr. Aaron G. Chapman. Mr. Chapman is brother to the Rev. Dr. Cheever, of Buffalo. He was five years in the Buffalo Express, and came to Syracuse three years since. He writes a sharp, terse[illegible] article on politics, and is evidently exactly at home when he strikes a literary lead. In the business meeting of the Convention he had little to say, being busy [illegible] personally during their sessions, and having in him the spare for delivery during the evening.

The Syracuse Courier was represented by Mr. D. J. Hanafin, the gentlemanly business man of the concern. Mr. McCallum, its editor, being just now in Albany.

The Standard's representative was Mr. P. H. Adam, who is the (Republican) County Treasurer of Onondaga. The Standard has nearly turned from a morning to an evening paper—leaving to the Courier almost the great advantage of giving the evening dispatches by telegraph to the morning. The evening Journal gain, on the other hand, in the freshness of their local news—as of course it would not pay to make late night sessions for the commodity, as in the matter on your City papers. Between the three papers there is a pretty healthy, especially considering about seven. The rush for the New-York papers, which arrive just about as the evening papers are issued, makes it their obvious policy to be strong on locals. But these so-called locals appear to be in decreasing quantities, and [illegible] and [illegible] ability to write more or less columns of [illegible] matter, is daily becoming more [illegible] than the ability to write [illegible] paragraphs. The [illegible] of the [illegible] papers, [illegible] Journal, [illegible] Evening Journal, [illegible] Express, [illegible] Courier, [illegible] Standard, [illegible] Times

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.—All the Commissioners were present at the regular meeting of the Board, yesterday. Very little of interest transpired. The resignations of Officer G. W. Burrows of the Nineteenth Precinct was presented and accepted. Mayor Tiemann offered a resolution directing that the horses used by Carriage Captains and Inspectors, be assigned to the Mounted Police. It was accepted. Sergeant Hunt was appointed a policeman in Brooklyn. The vacancy occurring in the Court rendered the appointment necessary in this case.

The complainant in this matter alleges, and he evidence supports the allegation, that the defendants have charged in substance that the complainant, who was Secretary of the Republican Executive Committee, was guilty of bigamy, in that he had two wives now living.

The defendants attempt to justify this charge on the following statement of facts, which have been proved before me on this examination:

That Warren and Wheeler, some of the defendants, were both slaves in North Carolina owned by different parties. They agreed, as far back as 1814, to live together, and a colored Methodist preacher read over the disabilities on marriage, the parties saluted each other as husband and spouse, jumped over the broomstick in the kitchen, and were pronounced married.

No license seems to have been obtained from the County Court, as required by the laws of that State, nor was the consent of their respective owners obtained.

The pair so, however, cohabited together, as best they could, under the circumstances, and after some seventeen years, twelve children had been born to them, as the fruits of such cohabitation. In 1833, however, Warren (or Warren Hill [Hill], as he continued to live under) left the State, and in New-Jersey became he was obliged to leave and did. After ten years absence, he returned to North Carolina, found his woman, who was still a slave, passed one night with her; whereupon he was molested by the Sheriff to leave in three days, or be again reduced to slavery. He left; Warren consenting and advising him to do so. He came to Williamsburg, where in 1842, he was duly married to his present wife. Warren his former woman, remained in slavery till about 1864, when she moved North and died. In 1863 Warren married another woman. She now claims him as her rightful husband.

Out of this claim, this whole controversy has arisen. It is due to the claimant to say, that she is shown to be a sincere, plain, blunt, honest-hearted Christian woman, believing both in the merit and sanctity of her claim.

Had she left North Carolina with Warren, or had she obtained her freedom before he contracted his last marriage, he admits that he should have felt morally bound to have made her his legal wife, but as he heard nothing from her and had no reasonable expectations of her being made free, he seems to have contracted the second marriage in good faith.

Under these circumstances, I am called upon to say whether Warren can be charged with the offence of bigamy; in other words, whether the defendants have made good their declarations touching his having two wives.

From the facts disclosed in evidence, I have arrived at the following conclusions:

1. That as marriage is a civil contract the parties must in law be capable of contracting—2 Phil., Eng. Ecp., 19.

2. Slaves cannot in law contract marriage, nor does cohabitation confer any legal rights on the parties or their children.—2d Ale. Rep., 710; 5 Maryland Rep. 91; North Carolina Eqnity Rep., 177.

3. Warren's first marriage being in law a nullity, he was at full liberty, if his moral sense allowed it, to contract the marriage with his present wife, and has violated no law in so doing.

It follows that the defendants, in uttering the charges against Warren, have themselves violated the law; and if repeated after this intimation from the Court, will become liable for damages.

The defendants must be held to bail in the sum of $100 each.

Ordered accordingly.

CIRCUIT COURT.—Calendar for Monday, 12th inst.—Nos. 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 126, 22, 90, 108, 109.

Military Visitors from Milwaukee.

From the Albany Journal of last evening.

This company, en route for New-York, reached this City at 6½ o'clock this morning, and were received at the railroad crossing in Broadway by Continental Company B. The Light Guard are a fine-looking body of men, and appear to be well drilled. On arrival they wore their Winter uniform, consisting of a light blue overcoat, with large capes, light blue pants with red stripes, knapsack, shakos, white cross belts, and gauntlets covered. Under escort, they marched through Broadway, State and Eagle streets to the State Arsenal, where they stacked arms, and immediately after proceeded to Congress Hall.

The following is a list of the company.

Commissioned Officers—Captain, John C. Starkweather; Lieutenants, Dwight W. Reeves, A. R. Chapin, George B. Bingham.

Band—Twenty two members, lead by Leavitt.

The Governor of Wisconsin, A. W. Randall, Esq., did not accompany the Guard to Detroit, for, in a letter to the Captain, under date of Madison, June 9, he says: "That a meeting of the Trustees of the Fox River Improvement" prevented him from leaving home.

The following is a list of the honorary members accompanying the Corps: Herman L. Page, Mayor; Andrew J. Langworthy, Sheriff; Herman Schwarting, Ex-City Treasurer; Robert B. Lynch, City Clerk; Henry L. Palmer, City Attorney; John L. Davis, Albert B. Van Cott, Joseph Lathrop, Daily News; Thomas H. Evans, Chief Engineer; Major-General John Hathaway.

With the Milwaukee Union Cornet Band they proceeded, without escorts, to the Armory of Company B, under escort of that Company. This afternoon they will dine at Congress Hall, and from thence proceed to the 8 o'clock boat for New-York.

The Guest Flood in the Upper Mississippi.

Our Minnesota exchanges are filled with reports of another flood in the Mississippi, exceeding the highest stage of water known to the oldest inhabitant. We copy the chief items of interest, embracing the losses as far as ascertained.

From the St. Paul Minnesotian, 6th.

On Saturday morning, early, the turbulent waters began closing up the little strip of levee that was left at the lower landing, and soon came tumbling into the warehouse cellars along between Jackson and Sibley streets. Then "there was hurrying to and fro," and many busy hands were engaged in hoisting the freight, wares and goods into the upper stories. We hope no damage will be done to any of the warehouses or their contents there. The steamboats were compelled to land at the foot of Robert-street, where, the descent being more deelivitous, a better landing was found. Above that the new levee is completely submerged, and we fear the sweeping current may injure it, as it was hardly finished, being recently filled in with loose dirt and stone.

The river rose on Saturday at about three-quarters of an inch an hour, and from 8 o'clock P. M., on Saturday to yesterday evening, the rate of rising had decreased, having risen during those fifteen hours about five inches, as near as we could tell.

On the upper flat the roof and pipe of Coss's saw-mill still glimmer above the water. It will sustain much injury, while some logs and timber have floated away. The few houses at the foot of Eagle-street are isolated and surrounded, and partly filled with the water. On the lower flat the road between the gas-works and Dayton's bluff is neck deep under water, and the inhabitants are compelled to go around by way of the Stillwater road. The road is made of sand and dirt, and will sustain damage. A steamboat has gone far up the flat, back of the saw-mill, where none ever went before, as far as we can learn. The steamboat Clarion, which was blown up by the ice-boat last Spring, and left in a damaged condition at the upper levee, floated off on Friday night of its own free will. We have not heard from it.

We cannot pretend to give any figures of the loss and damage occasioned by the flood. In the aggregate it will be enormous, if the waters do not subside. Coming as it does in the hardest of hard times here, it will be more severely felt. After this flood, we predict no one will want to settle on bottom lands again, while our high, rich, rolling prairies invite settlement.

Along the river there has been much wood floated off, hay, &c., destroyed. We have not definite particulars of the flood below, but some of the towns must possess valuable water privileges soon.

At St. Anthony and Minneapolis, the storm and flood has been terribly destructive, and property to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars have been destroyed and lost. The pier on which the turn-table of the upper bridge at St. Anthony's stands (the bridge is a draw-bridge) has been moved down stream some thirty feet! Another pier nearer the shore has been swept away, taking about one hundred feet of the bridge with it! The water was level with the bridge at 10 A. M. to-day, and is probably over it by this time. There is great danger of the whole bridge going. The Suspension Bridge is as yet intact, being about three feet above the water. The fifth pier (from the St. Anthony side) of the lower bridge has gone, taking about one hundred and fifty feet of the bridge with it! Both adjoining piers are being undermined by the flood. The Suspension Bridge is probably safe, unless the one above it should come down in a body.

At least $150,000 worth of lumber and logs have gone over the falls within three days. Two small shingle-mills were carried away.

The Falls, we are told, present an appearance both fearful and sublime. The torrents pour over the precipice with terrible force and increased roar, and the spectacle has attracted even persons from this city. Portions of the rocks, we learn, over which those torrents have poured since the time that the Almighty first set creation in motion, have given way to the pressure of waters and fallen down, creating a still more terrible cataract. "Spirit Island," just below the cascade, has also been nearly swept AWAY. The Minneapolis Mill Company's dam still stands intact, while the draft does not yet reach the only bridge that can be crossed on the suspension.

The water, according to measurement made here, is 21 feet above low water mark. The Falls Bridge is entirely gone, and the Suspension Bridge is considered in great danger. The Falls Bridge was built by the Minneapolis Bridge Company, and cost $30,000. The Suspension Bridge was built by the Minneapolis Suspension Bridge Company, and cost $50,000. The Minneapolis Mill Company's dam is also gone, and the Minneapolis Mill Company's loss will be very heavy, between the bridges and the dam.

The railroads along the levee are keeping a number of men employed at their depots, to keep down the water which comes in from the river. The last report from the Falls is to the effect that the water was still rising, and was 21 feet above low water mark.

From the St. Anthony News, 6th.

The river is now (Tuesday) morning) higher than it has been known for eight years, and within a foot and a half of the extraordinary water mark of 1850.

The storm of Tuesday raised the river at St. Cloud two feet in a single night, and the water at this place gave a similar increase in volume. Last night it read 14 inches. At 6 o'clock this morning the locks of the St. Anthony Water Power Company gave way under the long pressure, and about 5,000,000 of logs, valued at 200,000, went over the Falls. About 4,000,000 of timber, the value of $20,000, were the property of the Mill Dealers. The boom at Coon Creek contains about 10,000,000 logs, and is constantly expected to give way. One of the piers of the lower bridge is badly washed. The water is up level with the floor of the St. Anthony Mills. The stone mill owned by Farman & Semrau, on Hennepin Island, is badly flooded, being entirely surrounded by water, and first floor overflowed. The water pours over the Minneapolis dam the entire length—a circumstance which has not happened before since its construction. Logs are continually coming down the river from beyond above; the water has risen to within four feet of the platform of Suspension Bridge, and the foot of the Upper Bridge.

The Coon Creek boom has given way, and hundreds of the citizens of St. Anthony and Minneapolis, in a state of intense excitement, are crowding to the shores to witness the result.

Many of the poorer people—mostly Irish—on the flats in Upper St. Anthony, below Main's Mill, also on the flats near Lower Board Landing, have been drowned out, and obliged to seek other quarters. In several instances during to-day, laborers have been bringing their families and furniture away in boats.

The Leaning (Iowa) Mirror, of the 24 inst., says the river is higher than it was in 1850. The last report from the Falls was that the water was still rising, and was 21 feet above low water mark.

TERRIBLE STORMS ACCOMPANYING THE FLOOD.

From the St. Anthony News, 6d.

We hear from all parts of the State of the sad results of the storm of Tuesday night. In this vicinity immense damage has been done—houses removed from their foundations, barns uncocked, chimneys blown down, and large trees uprooted or broken off. The large two-story house, with an ell, belonging to J. H. Pace, and located in Cobb's addition to St. Anthony, was removed entirely from its foundation. A barn belonging to Mr. Day, of North Minneapolis, was uncocked, and the roof carried by the wind nearly one hundred feet. The large chimney connected with Worcorn's mill was blown down. A large barn belonging to Mr. Moore, about two miles from the city, was lifted from its foundation and moved some distance without injury.

At St. Augusta a large Catholic church, with steeple unfinished, was hurled from its foundation and destroyed. A large storehouse, three stories high, occupied with grain and goods, was hurled to the ground. A blacksmith's shop was blown down. The water power saw-mill had its roof and one side carried away. Two dwelling-houses were unroofed, and trees in all parts of the town and along the river were torn up by the roots.

From the St. Cloud Democrat, June 2.

We had a frightful storm last evening, or rather a succession of storms, lasting from 5 o'clock until midnight. The first came from the East, wind and sheet lightning. It was but past when a second came up from the North, bringing myriads of hailstones and torrents of rain, battering and destroying vegetables, riddling windows, carrying off fences, capsizing hen-houses, tearing up trees, and lighting the work of destruction with an incessant play of blinding sheet-lightning. This was making a grand finale, when storm third rushed up from the West, pouring out sheets of rain, like great billowy rivers, and bringing still more vivid lightning with stunning thunder.

Since writing the above we learn that there is scarce a window left whole in Upper Town, and that the damage in growing crops is very serious.

The Empress Eugenie is much admired for the bravery with which she fulfills the dry task of presiding over the Council of Ministers. The Emperor is said to be suffering severely from rheumatism, which has settled in his left leg.

POLITICAL.

Mr. FORSYTH publishes in the Mobile Register the history of the trouble between the President and Senator Dorsey. "Mr. Forsyth" position" is therefore established, at last. He stands, very much as the Western manner, forcibly if not elegantly, that "There is no gratitude in politics and we do not expect it. When a man comes to be useful to his party, and is a long jump. We are in the ring, as fresh and as ready for the contest as ever."

Two of the fire-eating candidates for Congress in Alabama, Col. J. F. Cooke and Gen. L. F. Walker, have withdrawn from the canvass.

The Louisville Journal summarily disposes of the Hon. Lyon Boyd:

"Lyon Boyd, the Democratic felo de se, left Frankfort, Kentucky, and, after a brief visit to Carrollton last Saturday, went to Kentucky for the purpose of entering upon the canvass. And what do you suppose he did? Why, he went to Kentucky for the purpose of announcing that he would not canvass the district, and that he would support Judge Wickliffe, the Democratic candidate for Congress. Boyd is a forty-two pound shot in politics, and he is quickly as well as possible."

The Register also vouches for the truth of the following statement:

"Lyon Boyd, the Democratic felo de se, left Frankfort, Kentucky, and, after a brief visit to Carrollton last Saturday, went to Kentucky for the purpose of announcing that he would not canvass the district, and that he would support Judge Wickliffe, the Democratic candidate for Congress. Boyd is a forty-two pound shot in politics, and he is quickly as well as possible."

The Opposition State Convention of Kentucky is called to meet at Frankfort, on Wednesday, September 7, to nominate a candidate for Governor.

The election of the Republican Convention of Ohio, in dropping Judge Bank Noyes from the ticket, has produced considerable excitement. The Cincinnati Times has the following comment:

"The day is full of political rumors to-day, the most important of which is the announcement that all Democrats will support Judge Noyes. He is the choice of the Democratic State Central Committee, and the Democratic State Convention is called to meet at Columbus on the 10th of September. The Democrats in the State are seriously used to unite with the Opposition; and an effort will be supported by the Democratic State Central Committee, as the only place that promises success. This will leave the Democracy of the Western State, the most important of which is the choice of the Democratic State Convention, and
